Thu 05 Dec 2024: Lost City Trekking: Donde Adan lodge(480 m)
Morning pick up at hotel and transfer, in 4WD cars, driving northeastwards along the Caribbean coast. After 1-1.5 hours, leave the paved road and here the adventure begins! After about a 1-hour drive on a dirt road, through a beautiful landscape, the village of El Mamey (150 m) also called Machete Pelado appears. Lunch will be served upon arrival and then the hike to Ciudad Perdida starts. This day's hike is exposed to the sun or the rain, therefore it is important to have a good amount of water and sun cream!. Tropical fruit will be offered along the trek. The group will take the river trail, which is a more pleasant walk than the main road. This trail follows the Quebrada del Alto Mamey river valley for about 1 hour and then ascends steeply (1,5 h) to El Mirador pass (640 m) which has a great view down to the Mamey town and the Buritaca River. From this point, a constant descent (1,5 h) to the Quebrada Honduras river, where the Donde Adans lodge is located. It is possible to take a swim in a beautiful natural river pool at the lodge. Dinner will be served in this rustic lodge. Night in hammocks.

Fri 06 Dec 2024: Trekking: El Paraiso lodge (870 m)

This is a longest day on the program. After an early breakfast, the ascent begins right away taking a well marked trail that gently gains altitude up to Mumake pass (680 m). Before the pass, there is the invisible border between Colonos lands (Peasants not originally from the area) and the Kogis Indigenous territory. From now on, the trek will be done in an area protected and ruled by this tribe. There are also Wiwas Indians, original from another sector of the Sierra, had settled in these valleys and now are running some of the lodges. It is also noticeably the change from extensive farmland into a better-preserved and much less exploded area. From the mountain pass, there is a relative quick descent to the Buritaca river valley (430 m), where the only Kogi settlement on the trek is placed. This settlement is called: Montangi and is a perfect spot to get an glimpse into the local life style and traditions. After about 1 hour, a river crossing over a hanging bridge, leads to a second ascent (2 h) up to Koskunguena pass (824 m) and then back down to the Buritaca river (743 m) for a last crossing.

The last part of the day is an almost flat area up to El Paraiso rustic lodge (870 m), the place for the night. This lodge is just by the shores of the Buritaca river, a fantastic place to relax and swim.

Night in hammocks. To Mumake pass: Ascent: 200 m / Descend: 250 m / Highest altitude: 680 m To Koskunguena pass: Ascent: 394 m / Descend to Buritaca River: 77 m / Ascent to El Paraiso Lodge: 127 m / Highest altitude: 824 m / Distance: 13.6 Km / Activity duration: 7-8 h Included meals: Breakfast, Picnic, Dinner

Sat 07 Dec 2024: Trekking: Lost City (1175 m)

Very early departure taking the trail on the right margin of the Buritaca river for about 25 min. up to a crossing, once on the other margin, the archaeological stairway begins ascending rather steeply to the first terraces of the Lost City (1175 m). From here begins a journey through time, to one of the most interesting archaeological sites of Colombia pre-Hispanic period.

The Lost City of the Tayrona is worldwide known. Its original Indigenous name is Teyuna and is one of the three large citadels of the vanished Tayrona civilization. Teyuna is the only city that has been discovered until now and thus partially restored. Tayronas cities were connected by a complex network of trails, from the Caribbean coastal area to the high mountain in the Sierra Nevada de Santa Marta. The Tayrona had a well-developed social organization and an effective system of products and goods exchange between the different settlements. Although there is no precise information on the role of Teyuna in the Tayrona culture, it is believed that it was a place for religious worship and a center of political power.

During 4 hours visit to the archaeological complex, the group will learn about the different types of terraces and how the city was divided into areas according to hierarchy and types of work. During the visit, it is possible to see the home of a Kogi Mamo (shaman-wise person) who lives in the same traditional way, as it is thought the inhabitants did. It is also believed that the Kogis are descendants of the Tayronas, pushed to the higher lands during the Spanish conquest. After the visit, hike down to El Paraiso Lodge to have some lunch and then continue (4,5 h), back on the same trail as the day before, but this time a bit further out, crossing the hanging bridge and down the Buritaca River valley, passing once again the Montangi Kogi settlement to Mumake lodge (389 m), just at the foot of the Mumake pass. Night in hammocks.
