Sat 18 May 24 - Walking Historical Malacca

Walking Historical Malacca

Take a half-day walking tour to visit key historical and cultural sites of the UNESCO World Heritage city of Malacca. Discover the diverse cultures of this former colonial outpost including the Peranakan culture is unique to the straits of Malaysia.

Walking Historical Malacca

At 09:00 in the morning or 13: 00 in the afternoon, be picked up from the hotel for a half-day walking city tour of quaint Malacca. Steeped in history as a trading post due to its vital location along the Malacca Strait, the town is a melting pot of cultures resulting from a distinct history from the rest of Malaysia notable due to the substantial Portuguese and Dutch influences.

Best explored on foot (a trishaw can be used for this tour at an additional cost), meander through areas steeped in history starting at the oldest remaining example of European architecture in Southeast Asia, A Famosa, before climbing St Paul's Hill to visit St Paul's Church and descending to one of the best examples of Dutch colonial architecture, the Stadthuys - the former Dutch City Hall which is flanked by flamboyantly decorated trishaws. Sample food at Peranakan-style restaurants in Malacca. This style of food is influenced by Cantonese, Portuguese, and Malay ingredients and methods. Taste a delicious warm Portuguese tart from one of the many nearby vendors.

Next, head to Temple Street, named for the multicultural range of temples and mosques that have lined the street since the early 18th century. This is the perfect place to get a taste of the area's uniquely diverse local culture. Visit Cheng Hoon Teng Temple, Kampong King Mosque, and Sri Vinayagar Temple to better understand Indian, Chinese, and Malay religious customs.

Continue to see restored Peranakan buildings (a cultural mix of Han-Chinese and Malay that forged its own style, known as the Baba-Nyonya, from the 15th century).

Visit the excellent Baba-Nyonya Museum along the way to learn more about the unique Peranakan culture before exploring some interesting antique stores and cafes along the famous Jonker Street. Walk back to your hotel or continue exploring Malacca on your own.

Sun 19 May 24 - Malacca Food Discovery

Malacca Food Discovery

Evening Tour

Take to the streets of Malacca's old UNESCO heritage town to discover the best local food. Spend the evening exploring from restaurant to restaurant, seeing the influences that a place with a multi-cultural background has had on its food. Taste a variety of different dishes influenced by the Malays, Indians, Chinese, and Arab traders, and gain a better understanding of Malacca's eclectic culinary culture.

Malacca Food Discovery

Meet the guide at the starting point at 18:30 to experience the delights of Malacca cuisine and get a closer look at the local culinary culture that makes Malacca such a hub of international cuisine.

Spend the evening walking and taking colorful rickshaws through the smaller streets of Malacca a UNESCO Heritage City. Stop at a variety of local restaurants, some offer traditional Malay dishes while others offer culinary treats influenced by overseas traders who came to Malacca over the past 2,000 years. Run by the same family for generations these restaurants specialize in one type of dish, from Chicken Rice Balls to Cendol or Asam Pedas, making them true experts in their craft.

Start with a Satay Celup, which is a type of hot peanut fondue to dip the chicken and vegetable skewers in. With the piping hot aromatic peanuts and a wide assortment of skewered meat and vegetables, it is one of Malacca's signature dishes, so any trip will not be completed without savoring a taste!

Loading a variety of spices, coconut-based sauces, meats, and vegetables into clay pots at the traditional clay pot specialty restaurant. Roast them over a strong open fire, this brings out incredible flavors and aromas that one simply will not find at home. Next, let your palate delight in the sumptuous aromas of Indian tandoori spices.

First coming to Malacca 2,000 years ago as spice traders, the Indians brought with them a form of cuisine where marinated meat is put on long metal skewers and is cooked over an intense fire in a clay oven.

Continue onwards to try the Chinese specialty dim sum, as well as street food from a hawker stall that boasts a variety of Malay and Chinese recipes.

Continue to the old town and stroll through the heritage houses along Jonker Street, before ending up at a picturesque cafe along the canal. Lined with street art, colorful lights, and music playing from nearby bars, this is a fantastic spot to relax with a drink and muse upon the multicultural cuisines that people brought to this sleep-world heritage town.
